AG Balderas Secures Life Sentence, without parole, for Cop-Killer Davon Lymon

Albuquerque, NM – Today, Attorney General Hector Balderas announced a sentence of more than life in prison for convicted cop-killer Davon Lymon. Lymon was convicted last month on 8 counts, including first-degree willful and deliberate murder of Albuquerque Police Officer and Army Veteran Daniel Webster. That conviction carries a mandatory life sentence, without the possibility of parole.

“Judge Candelaria did the right thing today. It has been an honor for my prosecutors to fight for the justice that Officer Webster’s family has long deserved,” said Attorney General Hector Balderas. “Today, Michelle Carlino Webster finally had the opportunity to speak to the pain Davon Lymon has caused. I am humbled to have played a small role in making that a reality. No one deserves to be murdered in our community.”

In addition to the first-degree murder charge, Lymon was sentenced on convictions of tampering with evidence, possession of a firearm by a felon, receiving or transferring a stolen motor vehicle, resisting, obstructing or evading an officer, and forgery.

Davon Lymon will spend the rest of his life behind bars.
