Attorney General Succeeds in Keeping Albuquerque Murderer & Armed Robber in Prison

Albuquerque, NM – Attorney General Hector Balderas announced this morning that Manuel Gardner, who in 2013 robbed a jewelry store on Coors Blvd. and murdered a single father working at the store in the process, will stay in prison. The Supreme Court agreed with the Office of the Attorney General and affirmed Gardner’s convictions of first-degree murder and armed robbery. Surveillance cameras caught the crimes on video. Witnesses stated Gardner made off with $1,800 and spent it on heroin.

“Extremely dangerous, violent offenders like Manuel Gardner have no place on our streets and I am pleased the Supreme Court agreed with our arguments and affirmed his convictions,” said Attorney General Balderas. “Keeping New Mexico’s most dangerous criminals behind bars remains our priority.”

Assistant Attorney General Maris Veidemanis handled the appeal for the Office of the Attorney General.

Please see attached for the Supreme Court opinion and a photo of Gardner.

1 robbery for fatally shooting Richard Glass and robbing the National Jewelry Buyers
2 store on Coors Boulevard in Albuquerque. The district court sentenced Defendant
3 to life in prison, and Defendant filed a motion for new trial on the basis that the State 4 had used perjured testimony to convict him. The district judge denied the motion.

5 {2} In this direct appeal, Defendant raises the following issues: (1) whether the 6 district court erred in failing to instruct the jury on how to evaluate circumstantial 7 evidence, (2) whether his conviction is based on sufficient evidence, (3) whether the 8 State violated Brady v. Maryland, 373 U.S. 83 (1963), in failing to disclose jail
9 records showing Defendant was not incarcerated in the same facility as Robin 10 Thomas, and (4) whether the district court erred in failing to grant Defendant's 11 motion for a new trial. We affirm the denial of Defendant's motion for new trial and 12 affirm Defendant's convictions. Because Defendant raises no questions of law that 13 New Mexico precedent does not already sufficiently address, we issue this non-14 precedential decision pursuant to Rule 12-405(B)(1) NMRA.

15 I. FACTS AND PROCEDURAL HISTORY

16 {3} On July 19, 2013, Mr. Glass was working alone at the National Jewelry Buyers
17 (NJB) store on Coors Boulevard in Albuquerque. NJB buys jewelry from the public 18 and pays cash, which was kept in a locked desk drawer. At 5:05 p.m., a man wearing

1 baggy jean shorts, black tennis shoes with white trim, a black hooded sweatshirt 2 (hoodie) with the hood pulled over his head, and a red bandanna covering his face 3 entered the store, shot Mr. Glass three times with a 9 millimeter handgun, and took 4 a money pouch from the desk drawer. The man then ran from the store and drove 5 away in a white, four-door, police-type sedan parked on Coors Boulevard. Mr. Glass 6 was dead as a result of the gunshot wounds by the time the police arrived.

7 {4} No one directly witnessed the shooting of Mr. Glass; however, surveillance 8 cameras inside the store captured the incident. Surveillance video from nearby 9 businesses also captured the man walking around the area before the crime, but his 10 face cannot be seen as it was covered by the hood of his sweatshirt.

11 {5} Ruphay Penaloza was working nearby at Integrity Automotive (Integrity), a car 12 dealership. Penaloza testified he heard three gunshots and then saw a man wearing 13 a black hoodie and red bandanna running from the building towards Coors Boulevard.
14 Penaloza walked across the side street between the businesses, looked inside the 15 building, and saw a body. He then called 911.

16 {6} Luis Fernandez was also at Integrity that day. Fernandez testified that when 17 he arrived around 2 p.m., he was unable to turn into the side street between NJB and 18 Integrity because a white Crown Victoria with Texas license plates was stopped on 1 Coors Boulevard in front of the NJB store. He testified that a portable gas can was 2 on the car and that a man wearing a white tank top and a black or dark beanie was 3 inside the car. Fernandez did not see any dents or markings on the car but recalled 4 a window was down although it had been a rainy day. He described the man as 5 “light-complected” and having “a broken nose or straight nose.” Fernandez testified 6 he heard gunshots and then saw the white car leave. However, on cross-examination 7 he said he only heard the tires screech and did not actually see the car leave the scene.

8 Another witness, Karina Luna, said that when she arrived at Integrity that day, she 9 also saw a white car stopped in the turn lane on Coors Boulevard. She did not see a 10 license plate on the car but recalled seeing the hazard lights on and a portable gas can 11 on the car. A man with a black hoodie was sitting in or standing near the white car.
12 Luna said Penaloza came in and told her someone had been shot across the street and 13 they, along with another coworker, went across the street to see what had happened.
14 They went inside the NJB store and saw a man on the floor, bleeding and 15 unresponsive.

16 (7) With few leads to go on, police sent local news media a portion of the 17 surveillance video showing the assailant and a description of the car. After the 18 information was broadcast, police received many tips, and one led them to an

1 individual named Garret King. King had been to another NJB store in Albuquerque 2 on several occasions and drove a white Crown Victoria. After police interviewed 3 King, they believed he did not have any connection to the murder.

4 {8} Virgie Russ contacted the police after she saw the video of the assailant on 5 television. She lives at the end of a residential cul-de-sac in northwest Albuquerque 6 and had recently noticed a white Crown Victoria parked on her street. On several 7 occasions she watched the man park the car, get out, and jump the wall dividing the 8 homes and the adjacent apartment complex. Russ believed this man moved like the 9 man she saw on the video. Russ said the man wore glasses, but she never got a clear 10 look at his face. She said the man almost always wore a black hooded sweatshirt, 11 baggy jean shorts, and black tennis shoes with white trim. She called him "bird legs" 12 because she thought his legs looked small.

13 {9} In response to Russ contacting the police, Albuquerque Police Officer Shawn 14 Lockey went to Kingsway Drive on July 24, 2013, and found the white Crown 15 Victoria. Officer Lockey saw a "reddish pinkish" bandanna inside the car. The 16 driver's side window was missing, and a blanket covered the window. The car did 17 not have a license plate. Officer Lockey called Detective Kevin Sanchez to the scene.

18 {10} Detective Sanchez, along with another detective, arrived and saw the bandanna

1 inside the car. He also saw a pay stub with Defendant's name on it. Sanchez 2 photographed the car and the bandanna. Investigation of Defendant's name led 3 Sanchez to the apartment complex adjacent to Russ's home. Detective Sanchez began 4 surveillance of the complex and saw the white Crown Victoria on two occasions. On 5 the second occasion, Sanchez saw an individual, later identified as Defendant, exit 6 the apartment with two children and get into the white car.

7 {11} Defendant's ex-girlfriend Ashley Sanchez lived in the apartment with their two 8 children. Sanchez said Defendant lived in the apartment recently, but his drug use 9 and unemployment caused problems with their relationship and they had broken up.
10 Defendant still had belongings at the apartment and would watch the children 11 sometimes when Sanchez was at work. Sanchez identified the white Crown Victoria 12 as Defendant's and said he parked it on Kingsway Court because it would have been 13 towed if parked at the apartment complex without a license plate. Police obtained a 14 warrant to search the apartment and found a pair of jean shorts and black tennis shoes 15 with white trim, which Sanchez identified as belonging to Defendant.

16 {12} APD Detective Holly Anderson interviewed Defendant on August 10, 2013, 17 and a video of the interview was introduced into evidence. In the interview 18 Defendant denied committing the crime. He said he had sold jewelry to Mr. Glass at

1 the NJB store on three or four prior occasions but had not done so in the last four or 2 five months. At trial, Detective Anderson pointed out particular similarities in the 3 jeans and shoes worn by the shooter and those found by police that belonged to 4 Defendant. Anderson also noted that the man in the video appears to adjust 5 something on his face and that Defendant wears glasses.

6 {13} Romie Salem was the owner of the NJB store at the time of the incident. Salem 7 testified that when someone comes to the store to sell jewelry, they take down the 8 seller's information from their identification, such as a driver's license or passport.
9 This information was kept in their records. Through Salem, the State introduced 10 invoices that showed Defendant had sold jewelry at the NJB on Coors on nine 11 different occasions from January through June 2013. Salem testified the money paid 12 to sellers was kept in a locked drawer of the desk where Mr. Glass sat.

13 {14} Shannon Villegas testified that he was arrested for armed robbery in June of 14 2014 and was in the Metropolitan Detention Center (MDC) at the same time as 15 Defendant. Villegas testified that Defendant would speak with Villegas's cell mate, 16 who was also charged with murder. Villegas said Defendant would talk about 17 Defendant's case "many times." He remembered Defendant specifically saying on 18 more than one occasion that he went in and "shot the dude in the chest." Villegas

1 also said Defendant said he got $1,800 and spent it on heroin. Villegas said he never 2 heard Defendant deny killing anybody. On cross-examination, Villegas said he has 3 a “real bad memory” and defense counsel was able to point out several 4 inconsistencies in his testimony from what he had initially told the police.

5 {15} Lastly, Thomas testified that he was incarcerated in the Polk County Detention 6 Center (PCDC) in Texas along with Defendant around the time of October 2013.
7 Thomas was transferred to PCDC due to overcrowding at MDC. He said that while 8 he was in PCDC, he overheard Defendant say that he robbed the NJB store and 9 “blasted the guy.” Thomas said that he himself had sold jewelry at the NJB store on 10 many occasions and had tried to sell some jewelry there the day after the murder.
11 Thomas admitted to having twenty-three felony convictions including identity theft, 12 fraud, forgery, and drug trafficking. When Thomas said that he was released from 13 PCDC in October, defense counsel asked him if he was aware that Defendant was not 14 transferred to PCDC until November, after Thomas said he was released. Thomas 15 said, “Maybe I got my days wrong, or whatever, but, I mean, I know—that’s why I 16 know him; it was from Texas.” Both Villegas and Thomas said they did not receive 17 anything for testifying at trial.

18 {16} No weapon was ever found during the investigation.

1 {17} At the close of trial, Defendant requested that two instructions on 2 circumstantial evidence be given to the jury: UJI 14-5001 and UJI 14-5002 NMRA.
3 The first, UJI 14-5001, explains direct and circumstantial evidence and that the law 4 makes no distinction between the two but only requires that the jury be satisfied of 5 the defendant's guilt beyond a reasonable doubt from all the evidence. The second, 6 UJI 14-5002, instructs the jury that they cannot find the defendant guilty of a crime 7 based on circumstantial evidence alone, "unless the chain of circumstances excludes 8 every other reasonable explanation except the defendant's guilt beyond a reasonable 9 doubt." The use notes for both instructions state that "[n]o instruction on this subject 10 shall be given." The district judge denied the two instructions on that basis and gave 11 the jury UJI 14-5060, the required instruction on the beyond-a-reasonable-doubt 12 standard of proof. The jury found Defendant guilty of first-degree murder (willful 13 and deliberate) contrary to NMSA 1978, Section 30-2-1(A)(1) (1994) and armed 14 robbery (robbery while armed with a deadly weapon) contrary to NMSA 1978, 15 Section 30-16-2 (1973). The district court sentenced Defendant to life imprisonment 16 for the first-degree murder conviction and ten years for the armed robbery conviction.
17 Defendant filed a motion for new trial claiming he was not in PCDC at the same time 18 as Thomas and, therefore, Thomas committed perjury when he testified that he

1 overheard Defendant admit to the crime while in PCDC. Defendant attached an 2 exhibit to the motion which appears to be an MDC record showing that Defendant 3 was in PCDC from November 8, 2013, through December 12, 2013. Defendant
4 requested a new trial in light of the perjured testimony put on by the State. After a 5 hearing, the district judge denied the motion.

6 {18} Defendant appeals directly to this Court under Rule 12-102(A)(1) NMRA 7 (providing a right to direct appeal when a sentence of life imprisonment has been 8 imposed).

9 II. DISCUSSION

10 A. Defendant's Request for Jury Instructions on Circumstantial Evidence

11 {19} Defendant argues that the evidence presented against him was almost entirely 12 circumstantial and that the jury should have been instructed with UJI 14-5001 and 13 UJI 14-5002. Defendant recognizes the use notes for the two instructions state to not 14 use the instructions but argues they are still necessary to properly guide the jurors on 15 how to evaluate circumstantial evidence and that without this guidance, the jury is 16 susceptible to misinterpreting the evidence and misapplying the beyond-a-reasonable-17 doubt standard. Defendant contends that had the jury been given the two requested 18 instructions, it is likely they would have acquitted him.

1 {20} Whether a jury instruction was properly denied is a mixed question of law and 2 fact that we review de novo. See State v. Gaines, 2001-NMSC-036, ¶ 4, 131 N.M.
3 347, 36 P.3d 438. At trial, the two instructions were proffered and briefly discussed 4 before the district judge denied them, and this was sufficient to preserve the issue for 5 appellate review. See Rule 5-608(D) NMRA; State v. Jernigan, 2006-NMSC-003, 6 ¶ 10, 139 N.M. 1, 127 P.3d 537.

7 {21} In a criminal case, the district court must instruct the jury upon all questions 8 of law essential for a conviction of any crime with which the defendant is charged.
9 See State v. Osborne, 1991-NMSC-032, ¶ 10, 111 N.M. 654, 808 P.2d 624. In 10 addition, “a defendant is entitled to have his or her theory of the case submitted to the 11 jury under proper instructions where the evidence supports it.” State v. Lucero, 1998-12 NMSC-044, ¶ 5, 126 N.M. 552, 972 P.2d 1143. Failure to give a requested 13 instruction to which the defendant is entitled constitutes reversible error. See State 14 v. Ellis, 2008-NMSC-032, ¶ 12, 144 N.M. 253, 186 P.3d 245. Jury instructions are 15 sufficient if they fairly and correctly state the applicable law. See State v. Rushing, 16 1973-NMSC-092, ¶ 20, 85 N.M. 540, 514 P.2d 297.

17 {22} , New Mexico used to instruct jurors that “where the state relies solely upon 18 circumstantial evidence to prove its case, such evidence must be inconsistent with any

1 reasonable hypothesis of the defendant's innocence." State v. Rice, 1954-NMSC-037, 2 ¶ 15, 58 N.M. 205, 269 P.2d 751; see also State v. Easterwood, 1961-NMSC-084, ¶ 5, 3 68 N.M. 464, 362 P.2d 997; State v. Peden, 1973-NMCA-095, ¶ 7, 85 N.M. 363, 512
4 P.2d 691. In State v. Bell, this Court announced its abandonment of the traditional 5 distinction between direct and circumstantial evidence. 1977-NMSC-013, ¶ 9, 90 6 N.M. 134, 560 P.2d 925. Since Bell, we have reaffirmed on several occasions that the 7 law in New Mexico does not recognize a difference between the two types of 8 evidence and that the fact-finder need only apply the reasonable doubt standard of 9 review to the evidence, no matter the type. See, e.g., State v. Reymundo Carlos
10 Garcia, 2005-NMSC-017, ¶ 20, 138 N.M. 1, 116 P.3d 72; State v. Graham, 2005-
11 NMSC-004, ¶ 9-10, 137 N.M. 197, 109 P.3d 285; State v. Brown, 1984-NMSC-014, 12 ¶ 7, 100 N.M. 726, 676 P.2d 253.

13 {23} It is settled law in New Mexico that instructions on circumstantial evidence are 14 not to be given. See State v. Smith, 1979-NMSC-020, ¶ 35, 92 N.M. 533, 591 P.2d 15 664; State v. Williams, 1978-NMCA-065, ¶ 5, 91 N.M. 795, 581 P.2d 1290. We find 16 no basis to depart from settled law in this case and reiterate that the mandatory 17 instruction to the jury on the reasonable doubt standard found in UJI 14-5060 18 accurately and sufficiently instructs the jurors on the essential law. Additional 1 instructions defining the types of evidence or the reasonable hypothesis test are 2 confusing and do not help the jury. Accordingly, we find the district court properly 3 denied the two requested instructions.

4 B. There Was Sufficient Evidence for the Jury to Convict Defendant of First- 5 Degree Murder and Armed Robbery

6 {24} Defendant next argues that the evidence presented by the State was insufficient 7 to support his conviction. He contends that most of the evidence was based on mere 8 coincidence and that the jury had to speculate and form conjectures in order to draw 9 the necessary inferences needed to conclude that he was the perpetrator. In reviewing 10 the sufficiency of the evidence, we determine “whether substantial evidence of either 11 a direct or circumstantial nature exists to support a verdict of guilt beyond a 12 reasonable doubt with respect to every element essential to a conviction.” State v.
13 Jose Pedro Garcia, 2011-NMSC-003, ¶ 5, 149 N.M. 185, 246 P.3d 1057 (internal 14 quotation marks and citation omitted). The evidence is viewed “in the light most 15 favorable to the guilty verdict, indulging all reasonable inferences and resolving all 16 conflicts in the evidence in favor of the verdict.” State v. Cunningham, 2000-NMSC-17 009, ¶ 26, 128 N.M. 711, 998 P.2d 176. We do not weigh the evidence or substitute 18 our judgment for that of the fact-finder but must determine whether there was 19 sufficient evidence to support the verdict. See State v. Chavez, 2009-NMSC-035,

1 ¶ 11, 146 N.M. 434, 211 P.3d 891. As long as a rational jury could have found 2 beyond a reasonable doubt the essential facts required for a conviction, we will not 3 upset a jury's conclusions. See State v. Duran, 2006-NMSC-035, ¶ 5, 140 N.M. 94, 4 140 P.3d 515.

5 {25} Defendant was charged with first-degree murder contrary to Section 30-2-6 1(A)(1). To meet its burden of proof that Defendant committed first-degree murder, 7 the State had to prove that (1) Defendant killed Mr. Glass, (2) the killing was with the 8 deliberate intention to take away his life, and (3) this occurred in New Mexico on or 9 about the 19th day of July, 2013. See UJI 14-201. To convict Defendant of armed 10 robbery contrary to Section 30-16-2, the State was required to prove that (1) 11 Defendant committed a robbery and (2) did so while armed with a deadly weapon.
12 See § 30-16-2; UJI 14-1621 NMRA.

13 {26} When the evidence is viewed as a whole, we find that a rational jury could have 14 found beyond a reasonable doubt that Defendant was the man in the video and that 15 Defendant shot Mr. Glass in the chest with the deliberate intention to take away his 16 life. The State presented evidence that Defendant owned and frequently wore 17 identical shorts and shoes to that of the person in the video. Detective Anderson 18 testified that in the video footage, the man seemed to be adjusting his glasses and that

1 Defendant wore glasses. The State also presented evidence that Defendant owned 2 and drove a white Ford Crown Victoria that is identical to the car witnesses said they 3 saw that day and that appears in the video. Defendant told police he had sold jewelry
4 to Mr. Glass at the NJB store on three or four occasions in the past year. The State 5 presented receipts showing Defendant went to the NJB store nine times, the last 6 occasion being less than a month before the crime occurred. A witness living next 7 to the apartment complex where Defendant's two children and ex-girlfriend lived and 8 where Defendant used to live said that she had seen a man parking a white Crown 9 Victoria in her neighborhood weeks before the crime and that the man moved like the 10 person she saw in the surveillance camera footage shown on the news. The police 11 found Defendant's car parked near the witness's house and saw a reddish bandanna 12 inside the car. The surveillance video footage of the crime and the man walking 13 around the area before the crime was introduced into evidence. The jurors could have 14 viewed the video footage and reasonably concluded it was Defendant. The jury could 15 reasonably infer that the shooter was familiar with the NJB store and knew exactly 16 where to find the money. It can also be reasonably inferred that the shooter intended 17 to kill Mr. Glass when, upon entering the store, and without any provocation, he 18 immediately pulled out his handgun and shot Mr. Glass three times in the chest. See

1 Duran, 2006-NMSC-035, ¶ 8 (“Deliberate intent may be inferred from the particular 2 circumstances of the killing . . .”).

3 {27} Finally, Villegas testified he heard Defendant admit to the crime and provided 4 details such as the victim was a “jewelry store clerk” and was shot in the chest.
5 Though neither Villegas and especially Thomas were very credible witnesses, “the 6 fact finder resolves conflicts and determines weight and credibility.” State v.
7 Sanchez, 2000-NMSC-021, ¶ 32, 129 N.M. 284, 6 P.3d 486.

8 {28} The evidence, when viewed in accordance with the standard of review, is 9 sufficient to support the jury’s finding that Mr. Glass was shot with the deliberate 10 intent to kill and that Defendant was the shooter. Also, there was sufficient evidence 11 to prove, while armed with a deadly weapon, that Defendant robbed the NJB store on 12 Coors Boulevard in Albuquerque.

13 C. Defendant’s Rights Under Brady Were Not Violated

14 {29} In Brady, the United States Supreme Court held that a defendant’s due process 15 rights are violated when the prosecution suppresses favorable evidence. See 373 U.S.
16 at 87. On appeal, Defendant argues that the State failed to disclose the MDC records 17 which showed that he was not housed in PCDC at the same time as Thomas and that 18 this violated the Brady rule requiring disclosure of exculpatory evidence. Id.

1 Defendant claims that the State knew or should have known that Thomas was not in 2 PCDC at the same time as Defendant because the State is presumed to know a 3 defendant's whereabouts when he is in custody. See State v. Tartaglia, 1990-NMCA-
4 045, ¶ 4, 109 N.M. 801, 791 P.2d 76. Because the State used Thomas's perjured
5 testimony to convict Defendant, he claims he did not receive a fair trial.

6 {30} An alleged Brady violation constitutes a charge of prosecutorial misconduct.
7 See State v. Turrietta, 2013-NMSC-036, ¶ 35, 308 P.3d 964. "When an issue of 8 prosecutorial misconduct is preserved by a timely objection at trial, we review the 9 trial court's ruling on a claim under the deferential standard of abuse of discretion, 10 because the trial court is in the best position to evaluate the significance of any 11 alleged prosecutorial errors." State v. Allen, 2000-NMSC-002, ¶ 95, 128 N.M. 482, 12 994 P.2d 728 (internal quotation marks and citation omitted). When the district court 13 did not have the opportunity to rule on a claim of prosecutorial misconduct because 14 the defendant did not object in a timely manner, we review the claim on appeal for 15 fundamental error. Id.

16 {31} This issue of the jail records and Thomas's testimony was brought to the 17 district court's attention for the first time in Defendant's motion for a new trial. In 18 the motion, Defendant did not claim the prosecutor failed to disclose the jail records

1 or knew that Thomas was not in PCDC at the same time as Defendant. At trial, 2 Defendant did not move to exclude Thomas from testifying or object when Thomas 3 testified. A motion for new trial is not sufficient to preserve an issue that was not 4 otherwise raised during trial proceedings. See State v. Pacheco, 2007-NMSC-009, 5 ¶¶ 7-8, 141 N.M. 340, 155 P.3d 745 (determining that because the defendant raised 6 his claim of error for the first time in a motion for a new trial, the claim was not 7 properly preserved for appellate review); see also Rule 12-321 NMRA (“To preserve 8 an issue for review, it must appear that a ruling or decision by the trial court was 9 fairly invoked.”). Because Defendant did not raise the issue of prosecutorial 10 misconduct in a timely manner, we review the claim on appeal for fundamental error.
11 Allen, 2000-NMSC-002, ¶ 95.

12 {32} “Prosecutorial misconduct rises to the level of fundamental error when it is so 13 egregious and had such a persuasive and prejudicial effect on the jury’s verdict that 14 the defendant was deprived of a fair trial.” Id. (internal quotation marks and citations 15 omitted). Put another way, “[a]n error is fundamental if there is a reasonable 16 probability that the error was a significant factor in the jury’s deliberations in relation 17 to the rest of the evidence before them.” State v. DeGraff, 2006-NMSC-011, ¶ 21, 18 139 N.M. 211, 139 P.3d 61. Even assuming Thomas committed perjury, we are not

1 convinced his testimony had such a persuasive and prejudicial effect on the jury's 2 verdict that Defendant was deprived of a fair trial. First, defense counsel effectively 3 tarnished Thomas's credibility as a witness. This was reflected in the order denying 4 the motion for new trial in which the district judge stated that "it was clear that the 5 jury did not find [Thomas's] testimony persuasive and did not consider it in making 6 their decision." Second, when Thomas's testimony is considered within the context 7 of all the evidence presented, we are not persuaded that Thomas's testimony and the 8 few times it was referred to by the prosecutor in closing argument were so prejudicial 9 that it would "shock the conscience" to allow the verdict to stand. See Cunningham, 10 2000-NMSC-009, ¶ 21 ("Parties alleging fundamental error must demonstrate the 11 existence of circumstances that 'shock the conscience' or implicate a fundamental 12 unfairness within the system that would undermine judicial integrity if left 13 unchecked." (citation omitted)). Thomas's testimony was essentially cumulative of 14 Villegas's testimony, and there was sufficient evidence for the jury to find Defendant 15 guilty even if Thomas had not testified.

16 {33} A defendant must prove three elements under Brady: (1) the evidence must 17 have been suppressed by the prosecution, (2) the evidence must have been favorable 18 to the defendant, and (3) the evidence must have been material to the defense. See

1 State v. Trujillo, 2002-NMSC-005, ¶ 50, 131 N.M. 709, 42 P.3d 814. Even assuming 2 without deciding that Defendant satisfied Brady's first two elements, Defendant fails
3 to convince this Court of the materiality of the MDC record. In order for evidence 4 to be material under Brady, there must be "a reasonable probability that, had the 5 evidence been disclosed to the defense, the result of the proceeding would have been 6 different." Trujillo, 2002-NMSC-005, ¶ 50.

7 {34} Defendant argues on appeal that the MDC record was material "as it would 8 have challenged . . . Thomas' claim of a confession." The MDC record certainly 9 raises the question of Thomas's truthfulness but is not definitive proof that Thomas 10 was not in PCDC at the same time as Defendant. Yet even without the record, the 11 defense tried to impeach Thomas and specifically asked him, "Would it surprise you 12 to know that Mr. Gardner didn't go to Texas until November?" Thomas replied, 13 "Maybe I got my days wrong, or whatever, but, I mean, I know—that's why I know 14 him; it was from Texas." Defendant does not explain why Thomas's testimony was 15 vital to the State's case or why there is a reasonable probability that a different 16 outcome would have resulted had the MDC records been provided to Defendant. If 17 the defense had the record at trial, it could have produced the record to impeach 18 Thomas; but the jurors likely did not find Thomas credible anyway, given the lack of 1 any real substance to his testimony and his criminal record. Accordingly, we do not 2 find any violation of Brady by the State and affirm the district court's findings 3 regarding Thomas's testimony and the MDC record.

4 D. The District Court's Denial of Defendant's Motion for a New Trial Was 5 Not an Abuse of Discretion

6 {35} Finally, Defendant argues the district judge erred in denying the motion for a 7 new trial. We review the denial of a motion for new trial for abuse of discretion.
8 State v. Moreland, 2008-NMSC-031, ¶ 9, 144 N.M. 192, 185 P.3d 363. "An abuse 9 of discretion occurs when the ruling is clearly against the logic and effect of the facts 10 and circumstances of the case." Id. "The trial court has broad discretion in granting 11 or denying a motion for new trial, and such an order will not be reversed absent clear 12 and manifest abuse of that discretion." State v. Guerra, 2012-NMSC-027, ¶ 18, 284
13 P.3d 1076.

14 {36} In denying Defendant's motion, the district court noted that "Thomas's alleged 15 perjured testimony did not affect the outcome of the trial" and that "there was 16 sufficient evidence to sustain a conviction absent . . . Thomas's testimony." Based 17 upon our review of the evidence in this case and the discussion above, we agree and 18 find no abuse of discretion by the district court. Accordingly, we affirm the denial 19 of the motion for a new trial.

1 III. CONCLUSION

2 {37} For the foregoing reasons, we affirm Defendant's convictions for first-degree 3 murder and armed robbery.
